

Jennifer joined Silversons Realty 16 years ago after a successful career in advertising.

Her experience in client management for well known brands made working with clients on their real estate transactions an easy transition. Jennifer has represented many clients on both the buy and sell sides in New Rochelle, White Plains, Scarsdale, Riverdale and in NYC.

Additionally, she works with foreign buyers, investors and does 1031 exchanges. As an associate broker and an SRES (Senior Real Estate Specialist) designee, clients and their attorneys often turn to Jennifer for advice on the complexities of selling the family home and estate sales.

Jennifer has the distinction of being the top producing associate broker at Silversons year after year. Clients enjoy working with Jennifer because they can rely on her discretion, thoughtful analysis and attention to detail, to ensure swift resolution to their transaction.

In fact, she has become so highly regarded that at any given time about 90% of all her transactions have come from referrals. Many of those who have worked with her have become good friends and she derives great pleasure from the many relationships that have continued long after the closing. Jennifer lives in White Plains with her husband and family. She is an active participant in many charities and sits on her children's school board.

We chose her because of her knowledge of the neighborhood and the community and her experience. Our family was expanding and she was honest and realistic about what would work for us and stay within our price range. At the start of our search she helped us clarify our goals in terms of space and rooms. She was patient and answered all of our questions. We have two energetic boys so she would often have to answer the same question a few times depending on which direction they were running.

Jennifer's answers were insightful and inspired my wife and I to see the potential in each house we saw. She has a unique ability to walk into a room and make sense of it and if prompted she will suggest possible furniture ideas or arrangements.

Searching for a home during the pandemic required extra endurance and caution. Jennifer was thorough and made sure everyone was safe and comfortable. Certain locations would not allow us to bring our boys along and knowing this in advance was helpful.

When placing a bid on a house Jennifer shared our excitement and elucidated the remaining steps. She advocated for our family with enthusiasm and empowered us to ask the right questions.

Mrs. Askowitz supported us at every junction along the way including price negotiations, finding the right lawyer for closing, and expediting the overall process.

Our family is comfortable and happy in our home and so thankful for Jennifer!"
